Europa Gro Nr2 Font Family !!TOP!!

the 'server' name can be a bit slippery. server fonts can be installed on a server and used by remote users or automated processes to create items. these licenses are fairly common for e-commerce websites that allow their customers to interact with the font via the business' webpage interface, customize a printed hard-good product, and they'd purchase/receive the hard-good product. created by font fabrique in conjunction with linotype, europa gro offers a more compact design without compromising readability. the gro nr2 font family is available for adobe typekit. the gro family sets the standard for a modern, legible family which is pleasingly readable in both text and display sizes. europa gro nr2, which was added to the adobe fonts library last year, brings a weight and a face that is an improvement on its predecessor, europa gro nr1. although it is a substantial upgrade, the character of the family has not changed. it still has a crisp, legible design and a collection of weights to complement the modern design trend. see how it would look in real life by clicking through to view the wide selection of preview images showing europa in use both as a display font and for body text. when a designer knows which weight they want and that they want to use only a single face, it is most efficient to use a face with the same metrics as that weight. that is why europa gro nr2 has the same design and metrics as europa gro nr1, while it also has a new weight to complement it. the new weight, europa gro nr2 light, was originally included with the design of europa gro nr2, but this is the first time it has been available outside the box.
